DEAR KATHRYN
INVITATION
INVESTMENT GUIDE

WHAT'S INCLUDED

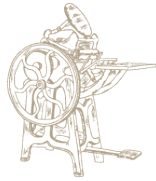

unlimited artwork & proofing

Whether you want to include a watercolor painting of your venue, line drawings, or a custom crest, it's all included in your design package. If we need to go through one round of proofing or 15, we'll work until it's just right!

material & design choices

I don't expect you to learn everything about paper types, envelope styles, or printing methods. That's why I'm here. I'll choose the best materials and make design choices based on your budget and aesthetic.

production

I'll handle everything in production. I only work with trusted vendors who are the best in the business, so you can be sure that your invitations will be handled with love and care.

assembly & mailing

Once production is finished, I'll assemble your suites by collating each card, wrapping them with your vellum or ribbon, pouring the wax seals, and gently placing them into each envelope. You'll receive a photo of the completed suites at the post office, and you never even had to lift a finger.

Every Dear Kathryn Client receives a keepsake suite to display in your home for years to come. I'll also send over a couple finished suites to your photographer so he or she can capture the details for you.

secure client portal

You will have a secure client portal throughout our time working together. This is where all of your design proofs, details, and invoices will be kept. Simply log in with your email address and password, and you'll be able to see if you have any unread emails or forms that need to be completed.

THE INVESTMENT

The custom invitation design experience with Dear Kathryn starts at $2,000.

On average, my couples tend to spend between $3,500 and $6,000 on their wedding stationery.

WE'RE A GOOD FIT IF...

Heartfelt details are important to you.

I'm head over heels in love with including even the smallest of details that are important to you as a couple. Throughout the design process, I really get to know you, your favorite things to do as a couple, and what's most important to you as you plan your wedding.

You value a stress-free experience.

There's no need to add more onto your To Do list while you plan your perfect wedding. I'll handle everything from beginning to end, only presenting you with options that fit your desires, budget, and aesthetic.
