Transforming weddings into celebrations where you can live your grandest moments.

Whether you have a plan in mind for every detail from the moment we first meet or you would prefer us to guide you every step of the way, we believe in curating celebrations that blur the lines between all you thought possible and completely lovely.

At G.G. Events, we offer innovative planning, design, and event management to couples in Jacksonville, Amelia Island, Orlando, St. Augustine, and beyond who are seeking a wedding day partner who has a love for details and an appreciation for expertly planned logistics. Together, we will find inspiration to transform your day into one that pushes creative boundaries while always honoring the relationships you share together and with your family and friends.

At the end of your day when your marriage journey together is only beginning, we want you to look back on every moment and relive each with a single thought: today was unforgettable.

Let us transform your event into a grand experience for you, your love, and your guests. Let us welcome you to G.G. Events.

DESIGN

Aesthetic is the tangible piece that allows your event to come alive. Let's uncover how your style can influence your design to create a wedding day that is unequivocally you.

For years, our clients have relied on our discerning eye for details to pull together beautiful, cohesive, grand, and memorable events. We pour over florals, textures, color palettes, stationery, and more to curate plans that allow us to elevate the things you love into wedding day moments that speak to your unique taste and style.

Design creates the environment you and your guests experience together. What will your wedding day space say about you?

Let us create it.

EVENT MANAGEMENT

If you have heard of “day of” or “month of” coordination, you have already heard of event management!

We take a cohesive approach to planning the final details of your wedding day with you. Together, we will pour over the contracts you have already signed, make final recommendations for you to consider from our exclusive vendor list, create your wedding day timeline, and manage your day from start to finish once your celebration arrives. We also include detailed checklists and access to our online program for concise and organized project management so we can always remain on the same page.

Allow us to handle every detail big and small while you enjoy the stress-free bliss of experiencing every moment of your wedding day. Event management is the service every wedding day needs.
