ABOUT JULISSA

Julissa Erausquin is a New York City based Makeup Artist. From an early age she was introduced to lip gloss, which her mother made her to believe was a staple to always leave the house with. This led to her curiosity in what things beauty other than lip gloss could give her so much joy. From that day on she became fascinated in the world of makeup where she then persuaded to practice on herself, friends and family members. Doing this allowed Julissa to work on different facial structures and tones other than herself and getting a better understand that not everything works on everyone. This led to people in her town and where she went to school to label her as the girl who does makeup and want her to do their makeup for them when it came to events such as prom and parties. She realized that makeup wasn't just something she liked to do it was something that brought her tremendous amount of joy seeing a person transform and seeing them go from feeling insecure to confident just in from the power of her brushes. This made her want to continue down this path and go from the girl who does makeup to the girl who can do makeup to the girl who can do makeup that suit anyone and how she is going to accomplish this was when she attended Makeup Designory (MUD) Masters program. It was during this program where she went under intensive training where she designed makeup for fashion, beauty and special effects. She looks forwards to taking the skills she learned to seek opportunities where she can use what she learned in full affect and inspire others the same way she was.
