

A note from Logan Greenwood

First, I would like to say congratulations on your engagement and upcoming big day! I am honored to be a part of such an important and memory filled event. It is my number one priority to provide the highest level of service for each of my brides and other clients. I pride myself on keeping up to date on the latest in cosmetic products and innovations in order to maintain this level of service. Keeping all of my client's safety in mind, my kit is cleaned and tools are sanitized before arrival on-site for each client. This process includes stocking my kit with disposable tools such as sponges, mascara wands, and makeup remover wipes and sanitizing my brushes with top of the line cleaning products specifically designed for multi-use face, eye, and lip brushes. This process alone has helped me gain the trust of many high-profile individuals and repeat clients. For all of my on-location clients, I arrive with a full kit, including shades and tones for everyone in your party. I am well versed in makeup applications for all skin tones and ages; which has also greatly set me apart in the industry.

My experience in the industry has helped tailor my kit to the most necessary and up to date products, ones that are gentle on the skin while being long lasting and touchable. I strictly use brands that I trust and that invest in true artistry and create products meant to be on film and camera. For instance, the foundation in my kit is the one used in Kate Middleton's Royal Wedding – an incredibly televised and photographed event. – LG
