

YOUR Wedding ADVENTURE

don't stress meet and greet photographer client labels are lame. let's get this straight, we're friends. i mean you pay me but i'd be your friend regardless. so lets get to know each other. in this get together we have our "first date." I bring the cookies, you bring the questions. i'll make bad jokes and katie will keep us on task. we will go over the packages, the add ons, and any other questions you can come up with.

hence the don't stress.

get to know ya engagement session

i would put my last dollar on guessing the groom is going to hate taking pictures. it's somewhere buried in their DNA that makes them roll their eyes when they see the big bad camera lens come out of it's deep dark camera bag hole. it's cool. i want to learn your mannerisms, your behaviors, your story. i want to know what you're comfortable with, what your best selfish side is. What? best selfie side is a legit thing! don't be ashamed for knowing it. the point is, the day of your wedding should not, ever, ever be our first time meeting each other. so let me get to know ya!

see ya later ordering session goodbyes are concrete. so we are going to say see ya later during this session and i'll be waiting for those family session catch ups in the future. remember all those fun a la carte products I mentioned. well this is where you get to spend that percentage off. do you get a digital download... yes. can your print your face off in walmart... yes. but don't. resist. you'd be amazed at the amount of colors those machines lack in comparison to my professional printers. it's like buying gucci on the street. you're gonna get gucci. no pressure, just passion for my art. plus i get to hear all about your honeymoon!
