

Officiant Pricing for Cantor Joanna P. Lind

Mazel Tov & Congratulations on your upcoming wedding!

Fee: $500 for the Cantor to officiate the ceremony.

- For your convenience, the fee is a flat rate.
- There are no “packages” to choose from.
- The approach for putting together a ceremony is the same for all couples.
- The fee does not change if there is a co-officiant as the amount of work is the same (or greater).
- Additional services incur additional costs as described below.
- A deposit of half the fee ($250) and a signed contract are required to book the wedding date.

Services provided:

- Officiating the wedding ceremony (including the ketubah signing, if applicable).
- Filing the marriage license.
- Two meetings (one initial meeting to get to know each other and ask questions, and one before the wedding to finalize the ceremony).
- All other email and phone communication with the couple as needed.
- Communicating with an event planner, venue coordinator, or day of assistant as needed.
- Assistance preparing for or running the rehearsal (attendance optional based on availability).
- Assistance purchasing the ketubah (if applicable) and procuring other materials necessary for the ceremony.

Additional services (fees vary):

- Extra meetings
- Providing an accompanist
- Travel outside of the Chicagoland area
- A day-of technical assistant for Zoom weddings

Please note, due to the pandemic all meetings and ceremonies will currently be held online only until it is safe to be together in person, especially due to the heightened risk from aerosolization of the Coronavirus through singing. When scheduling in advance for in-person ceremonies, keep in mind that adjustments or alternatives to plans may need to be made for everyone's health and safety.

I look forward to helping you with your simcha and being a part of your special day!
