MeetCuteStories: We Turn Love into Language

MeetCuteStories is a professional storytelling service for capturing love stories. Engagements, weddings, anniversaries—whatever the occasion, our trained writers turn love into language with an easy-to-share story that’s as beautiful as the love that inspired it.

As the holidays approach, couples are seeking the perfect gift for their loved ones. Our professionally written stories offer a way to celebrate each unique relationship! We offer four different packages couples can choose from to commemorate their love story. Our stories are printed into hard-copy books, published to our online platform (private to each couple) and complemented by a brief excerpt that can easily be shared with friends and family via the platform, a wedding website, or on social media. What better way to celebrate the holidays with your special someone, than with a professionally written story of falling in love?

The process starts with our network of more than 700 trained freelance professional writers and editors. They are book authors, screenwriters and journalists for publications big and small, from the Washington Post, the New York Times, CNN, to People Magazine and local newspapers. These are skilled interviewers and writers who are passionate about helping couples immortalize their love stories. They are all experts in identifying and highlighting poignant, significant moments, and bringing them together to paint the story of how two people found their way to each other. From the comfort of everyday traditions to funny or formal events, the writers will encompass all the details that make each couple’s story unique to them.

Each story also comes with an interactive timeline where families and friends can add memories, pictures, and videos to build a step by step digital recollection of every detail of your love story.

Our four offerings are as follows:

Sam and Natasha Owen – a Wedding Story

For Natasha it started with a llama. For Sam, it was confirmed by analytics. But their relationship began when Sam and Natasha Owen first noticed each other on OK Cupid.

An animal-lover with two guinea pigs of her own, Natasha zero'ed in on Sam's profile pictures, which featured both a rabbit and a llama. Sam noticed a woman who was beautiful and clearly intelligent. He invited her on a date at a restaurant near his house. If it went well, he figured, he could invite Natasha back to meet his rabbit, Rosie. It did.
