Pricing Guide

Hi! I'm Eileen - a curious Brooklyn based photographer who appreciates chaotic cities and the ocean. I graduated from Brown University with a degree in Theater Arts and went on to pursue acting in Chicago and New York.

I transitioned from theater to photography while discovering the ability to express the beauty, tension, emotion, and celebration of life more readily in photography than theater. I am a bit of an adventurer who is also deeply rooted to NYC - I love fighting it out in this glorious mess of a city.

Thoughts on Weddings

A wedding is a gathering of loved ones celebrating two people making a commitment to give it a go together in this crazy world. Weddings can be joyful, scary, hilarious, and serene, often all at the same time.

I create images that capture the spirit of the day, not only the appearance. I find honest moments to take truthful pictures. Quiet and loud, anxious and hopeful, stoic and silly - love comes in so many shades.

Every wedding is a mix of choreography and improvisation in terms of how the day plays out. I lean more towards a documentary approach - capturing each moment as it happens - but I also love chasing down beautiful light and directing couples to create unique portraits.

I seek out the observational comedy of daily life and am always down for a good laugh, but I don't approach this job lightly. Weight and levity coexist on every wedding day and it's always an honor to be trusted with the role of photographer.
