Since 2007 I have been associated to ANFM (Wedding Photographers' National Association), whose aim is to protect professional photographers' job and whose "philosophy" is bound to "respecting the customer and giving credits to the single photographer who is an artisan artist able to translate and perform, through his own peculiar creative and technical abilities, the job asked by the client". Regarding these principles, together with my constant care for the highest qualitative performance, I commit myself to always guarantee my presence during each photo service booked and not to be substituted by any other external collaborator working for the studio. This is to be considered in the view of the greatest transparency in the relationships with customers. I also guarantee that images submitted to the client in order to show my works, are the true results of my technical and creative abilities. At last, but not least, I promise the greatest clearness in prices, supplying customers with estimates showing all extras and various options which might be ordered in future and might vary the initial estimate.
