Average Cost for Wedding Flowers

Most wedding coordinators and bridal planning guides suggest that couples set aside between eight and ten percent of their total wedding budget to cover floral expenses. Depending on a couple's budget, this may mean wedding flowers cost between $400 and $5,000, but the costs for specific types of flowers can vary widely based on several different factors.

Your Flower Costs

There is a wide range of costs for wedding flowers. Your wedding flower budget will vary, depending on:

- Where you live and what blooms are available seasonally and locally
- Total number of flowers needed
- Other specialty arrangements

Factors That Influence Price

Several factors influence the cost of wedding flowers and can make many prices inaccessible to couples on a strict wedding budget. The most common factors that affect wedding flower prices are:

- Flower types: Some flowers, such as carnations, daisies, and roses are readily available and easy to grow, making them less expensive, while more exotic flowers like certain lilies, tropical flowers, or limited supply/off-season flowers like peonies, anemones and lily of the valley are more costly.
- Season: If the desired flowers are not seasonally available at the date of the wedding, they will cost more to be shipped in from other locations. Keep in mind, it's not always a guarantee that a specific flower will even be available at all.
- Flower color: While most florists have a wide color palette to work with, couples interested in more exotic shades will have to pay a premium to match their wedding colors.

- Arrangement size: The sheer size of wedding floral arrangements has a tremendous impact on the final price. Arrangements that are larger need more flowers and more time spent (labor) to create it.

Arrangement detail: When considering how much do wedding flowers cost, the intricacy of the floral arrangements and bouquets can heavily influence the price. A simple, hand-tied bouquet is less expensive than a more elaborate, multi-layered cascade.

Rush fees: If flowers are ordered at the last minute or design changes are requested, rush fees may apply.

Work Within Your Budget

Understanding the factors that affect wedding flower prices and how to save money on beautiful blooms can make any wedding budget blossom. Especially if you work with a florist who understands your needs, desires, and is ready and willing to work with your budget and your vision. With me, you will get a one-on-one flower consultant. Since I am a small, home operated business I am able to keep my costs down and remain affordable to most couples.

**TIP: Don't get sucked into Pinterest! I love Pinterest. Who doesn't?! Personally and professionally it is awesome to have so many readily available images and ideas at my fingertips. However, when planning your wedding, it is really easy to get overwhelmed by all the beautiful images of picture perfect weddings on Pinterest. Many clients of mine had trouble with this and had trouble making decisions because every day they found something different that they loved on Pinterest! Indecisiveness is frustrating..and I'm guilty of it myself! Pinterest, when used in small amounts, is WONDERFUL. And as a professional I love to look through my brides Pinned photos so I can get a feel for exactly what she wants.

Only after we discuss everything you need and want will I be able to put together a proposal for you. If you have any "Pinned" ;- ) photos of bouquets/centerpieces that you like please email them to me at AmberandEarth@hotmail.com so I can get an idea of your style and what you're looking for. Look forward to hearing from you!
