

about us

With so much attention focused on outsourcing the right venue, mailing RSVP invitations, and coordinating with multiple vendors while battling to stay in touch, it's no wonder why planning an event can be one of the most stressful occasions anyone could endure. For these reasons, we reach out to you and care for every booked event as if it were our very own. We are the social butterflies needed to help restore your faith in the way you believe vendors are capable of behaving. From the bottom of my heart, we thank you for considering our services.
