

Ryszard Cooper

investment guide 2024

I'm so glad you're here!

Hey there!

I'm Ryshawn but I go by Ry like rye bread (or the whiskey). And as your wedding photographer, here's what you should know about me:

I wholeheartedly believe in the importance of capturing the moments you share with the ones that you love. As a father, of a not so terrible toddler, she has shown me that each day that we live doesn't last forever. This has of course turned into me having thousand of photos of her but each image tells a story; and that story will be told for generations.

Anyone can take a picture but my goal is to capture the feeling of a moment. I want you to be able to look back on your photos and not just remember the moment but feel the rush of emotions you had when the photos were taken. I aspire to tell your story through images that will last a lifetime and a half.

And it's okay if you've never had photos taken before or if you feel awkward on camera. I'm here to direct and guide you so we can capture the real and authentic YOU!

“Absolutely yes!”

From the moment we started, he was fully engaged in our wedding and wanted to be sure he was going to be able to capture every moment. After meeting him through zoom we established a comfort that would ease our minds about hiring him for our special day.

Meeting him in person and how he interacted with family and friends also took a great burden off the day and made taking the photos comfortable and easy.

There were many candid photos he captured without our knowledge which excited us along with the posed photos which truly captured the moment, and we cannot wait to share with others.

He was truly a professional and a personal guy, and his work will not let you down.

Engagement Session

Have you ever imagined having a date with your significant other photographed?

Well, that's exactly how I try to make your engagement session feel. Like you both are on a date where it just so happens that a photographer is there to capture it all.

This is also an awesome way for us to get to know each other more before the wedding. The great thing about an engagement session is you'll get some amazing photos before the wedding, we can be as creative as we want, spend a little more time on taking each image, choose great locations and there is NO pressure.

Plus, we'll have a great time together! It is also a great opportunity to do your makeup artist trial and see how well everything photographs before the wedding.

Second Photographer

I have been blessed to be able to capture many weddings alongside my beautiful wife Emily.

The main advantage of having two photographers on the day, is that we can be in two places at once. With this, a wider variety of images can be captured creating better coverage throughout the day.

Having a second photographer also allows me to be more creative. Having someone with me to capture the safe shots enables me to move more freely and seek out images that I usually wouldn't be able to capture. These benefits can be especially helpful at larger weddings or with a large bridal party.

I can only be in one place at a time and do so much. With two photographers, we can double our field of view.

travel

If you're wondering if I will travel to you for your wedding or session...

THE ANSWER IS YES! I WILL!

Local travel is included within 1 hour radius of 19020. After the first hour, travel is charged at $75/hour.

let's go somewhere!

hear what others have to say

These 2 are really special. They are talented, flexible, responsive and just all around pros. We went through a lot planning a wedding during COVID and they were such a source of assurance. They are such talented photographers, and such kind people. I feel so lucky I found them. There's no way I would have found someone else comparable. They are professionals all the way and will not just take beautiful photos, they give such great energy. They're the best!

Katie & Dominic

"We booked these guys for our engagement session and wedding pictures, talk about talent. From their personalities to the professionalism, you feel like friends after all your sessions rather than clients. Thank you both so much! You captured our days perfectly!"

Brittany & Zachery
