JOHN ELLIS BULLER

Photographer
Traveler
Wannabe foodie

WHO :

I'm 6 years into the wedding industry with over 100 weddings under my belt. I love weddings which is why I switched from an award winning career in documentary film to photographing beautiful weddings anywhere in the world.

When I'm not photographing weddings I try to spend my time educating new photographers and exploring this crazy world.

WHY :

I'm often asked how I got started in photography. My dad has been a photographer his entire life. He travelled the world before I was born photographing people and places in over 90 countries. He then opened a studio and focused on wedding and portrait photography. I grew up watching him work and seeing the images he'd capture. Soon, I was documenting my own life with his outdated cameras. In college I studied film and began to understand how light worked in regards to photography and film. Documentary film led me to understand how to capture events and tell a story without intruding on the natural flow of the day.

STYLE :

I'd like to believe my style has a uniqueness about it. My history in documentary film and my love for commercial photography has developed an illustrative blend of fine-art and photojournalism. This timeless style provides images that could grace the pages of a magazine and still capture the emotions of the day. I try to stay hands off but we all know the grandparents want a picture of you looking right into the camera. So, I guide you through the day in a natural way that will provide the images you want to display in your home and some that will grandma will treasure :)
