About the process:

Typically I arrive 1 hour before the reception begins to set up & start painting inspired by the surroundings as the guests are arriving, adding a moment that I capture of the bride and groom from the first dance, or collaborate with the photographer using a shot they've captured from earlier photos. Always open to input you may have for colors or elements you want to make sure I include from the wedding or to go with your home decor. The majority of the painting is done at the event. I'll take it with me to complete the finishing touches with proper lighting in my studio, and so you don't have to worry about it at the end of the night. The painting will be ready for local pickup/delivery or shipping within the following 2-3 weeks after the wedding.

Painting Live at weddings is the perfect balance of adrenaline and happiness. I truly love capturing the connection and energy of your day in a special piece of art to be cherished forever.
