becausekissesmatter

No matter how skilled or talented the photographer, the single most important ingredient of great wedding pictures is the relationship between the subject and photographer.

Experience, lighting, composition, those all have their place, but without your questions, your ideas, and your trust in what the photographer can do, it means nothing.

That is the biggest secret of great photography, and what will forever separate a picture that is forever on facebook, or the walls in the homes of your grandchildren.

Your wedding is one of the biggest days of your life, and your photography will forever be part of the record from the day.

the process

By now, you've heard all about what you should do for every part of your wedding, How about instead of telling you, we just ask one question? What do you want?

What we are going to do is talk, stay on the same page from the first meeting. Whether your wedding is a 50 person intimate affair in a supper club, or a 400 person wedding banquet with family from the Old Country at every table that requires you to have a toast..and a shot with 40 tables. The idea is simple, let's stay in communication, not just a meeting and then a signed contract, but actual talking with you and your fiancé'. There is no better way to get to know you over the months before your wedding then a simple cup of coffee or glass of wine with your photographer.

How about a walk through at your venue? Take the literal steps from where you will walk down the aisle to where the wedding party gets together in the dark for a sparkler sendoff. Let us help you.

albums

Albums are divided by 3 different categories: size, number of pages, and manufacturing process.

Album design: Signature or Bespoke.

Bespoke design is where you come into the Baltimore studio to work hand in hand with Daniel to design your album just the way you like it, placement of images, selection of images. In 2-3 hours your album can be designed and you will know just what to expect.

Signature Design is where you allow Daniel to design your storybook album around your favorite selections from the day.

All main album designs reflect your story of the day rather than a scrapbook style approach. Total images are limited- a 40 page album is limited to 70 images, a 50 page album is limited to 80 and so on.
