HISTORY OF OUR HOUSE

The property at 2 Kemble Street, now the Kemble Inn, was built between 1881 and 1886 by the Frelinghuysen family of New Jersey, whose patriarch, Frederick T., was the Secretary of State in the Chester A. Arthur administration. The house was like many others in the area that were referred to by their owners as a summer “cottage”.

After many years as a private residence the house was donated by Mrs. Charles F. Bassett and referred to as Bassett Hall, serving as a boy's preparatory school dormitory. In 1993 the property was converted to an inn. The current owners purchased the property in June of 2010 and began a significant transformation and renovation.

“Too much of anythig is bad, but too much champagne is just right.” – Mark Twain
