Every girl had a dream about their wedding day! It started when we were playing with Barbie & Ken. Barbie would have the glorious wedding dress, Ken the tailored tuxedo, and Skipper would be a bridesmaid wearing a dress in your favorite color. As we got older and the dream grew it would continue on to when the ceremony was over and the amazing reception with hors d'oeuvres and cocktails, then a sumptuous sit-down meal. This would be followed by the elegantly designed multi-tier cake with champagne toasts, and then the best DJ or live band would start to play, and everyone would dance until it was time to throw the bouquet and leave for the exotic honeymoon somewhere like a Bali over-water bungalow or African adventure safari. Sound familiar?

Welcome to 2020. The dream is still alive, but as you start looking at the magnificent dress, venues for the ceremony and reception, food, cake, beverages, a DJ (not to mention live-band), along with the cost of a photographer to catch every special moment on film... reality and your budget slam into you like a brick wall. Don't get discouraged! There are solutions and people like me that will help you get it all figured out!

Many people think using a travel agent is too expensive and why should they have a travel agent when they can do it themselves. I can understand this way of thinking completely, but an article in TravelMarket Report by Cheryl Rosen details "10 Reasons To Use A Travel Agent..." gives excellent information and details as to why you need to have a travel agent. Additional reasons to use a travel agent to assist with planning include:

- ♥ Training and knowledge about locations and vendors*
- ♥ Advocate for you the customer to be sure you receive exactly what was requested*
- ♥ Access to information, discounts and special options not given to general public*

My prices are based on time, travel document preparation, and other unexpected changes:

- ✍ Bachelor/Bachelorette trip:
Begin at $100.00/per person*
- ✍ Honeymoons:
Begin at $250.00 for the bride & groom and increase based on complexity*
- ✍ Destination Wedding
Begin at $250.00/per person and increases based on the size of the bridal party and number of guests traveling to the destination*

I look forward to making your travel dreams come true.
