

Doug Ellis specializes in naturally transformative portrait and event photography for people who want to have fun while celebrating their essence.

Doug's unique ability to combine light, movement, and joy results in striking and authentic photographs that sparkle with a deeper truth. His embodied portrait process and resulting images are designed to be aspirational, attracting circumstances, people, and events in service of his client's goals.

With an approach that has been described as "sunlit bon vivant cashmere with a twist," Doug artfully and joyfully reveals your personal best.

Doug has been called the world's most connected spiritual photographer and has photographed such luminaries as the Dalai Lama, Marianne Williamson, Jack Canfield, John Gray, and Byron Katie. He also serves a variety of cause-driven organizations, including the Transformational Leadership Council, Esalen Institute, The Ojai Foundation, Evolving Wisdom, Antioch University, and the Red Cross.
