frequently asked questions

Q: We love your work! What are the next steps to getting you on board for our wedding?

A: I love getting to know my brides & grooms, so let's set up a time to meet (or chat via-Skype or phone) & see if we're a good fit for each other!

Q: What do you need in order to book our wedding date?

A: I simply require a signed contract + a 50% retainer fee

Q: How many images will we receive?

A: I typically estimate that you'll receive 500-700 images, but I promise to not hold back – if you have more than 700 amazing shots, I deliver them!

Q: Do you offer military discounts?

A: I do indeed! As long as one or both of the bride & groom are active duty!

Q: How do your travel fees work?

A: I love to travel! So I try to make it easy on my couples to take me with them to their wedding – all you're responsible for are flights & hotel! I take care of everything else!

Q: Do you take every wedding that comes your way?

A: I do not, but that's for your benefit as much as mine! The images you see from me are both a result of my skills as a photographer AND the relationships with my couples that allowed for such intimate, natural moments. Your wedding photographs are an investment and I believe you and I both deserve the best!

Ready to book? After you have looked over the information provided here, the next step before booking with us to capture your wedding day is a consultation; either via-phone, Google hangout, or in-person. During this consultation, I want to get to know the two of you, hear all of your plans to celebrate the beginning of the rest of your life together, and make sure we're the right fit for each other. Just as much as you're searching for the best photographer for your day, we're searching for the right clients for us: those clients who allow us to give them the best version of ourselves and our work.
