

Jeffrey Foote Photography

Hello and congratulations! For a custom quote please write or call with your date and venue.

The only difference between the two packages below is one or two photographers, up to 12 hours; from getting ready in the morning to the last song. Pretty simple. The second photographer will meet your second wedding party early in the day to photograph them getting ready as well as details such as the rings etc. The second photographer will also photograph alternative views of the ceremony and reception. I will meet with the first wedding party in the morning and later while I am photographing formals the second photographer will go to the ballroom and photograph details (tables, flowers, uplighting etc) and photograph guest at the cocktail hour. Very thorough coverage.

Additional info... The formals list I use I have revised over the years, it is a list with anything that you could possibly want with family and wedding party. My formals list is revised to run smoothly and quickly. I also have a wedding party / family tree that I will use to re-write the formals so I will get to know everyone by name. I also have a timeline with some basic questions that will provide me info as to what is happening when etc.

I am blessed to have two very experienced second photographers. My second photographers have many years of experience shooting weddings but are currently photographing events for universities, businesses etc during the week so they are able to assist me on weekends. It is a very good situations for my clients and I.

 * A day of coverage is generally 8 to 14 hours, this will allow us to get images of you getting ready to well into the evening. This will also allow you to spread out the days events without being rushed. A typical day starts in the morning photographing hair, makeup, details of the dress, shoes, rings etc, then onto the ceremony and reception where we will photograph guest at the cocktail hour, the wedding party being announced, first dances, cake cutting, speeches, greeting tables as well as other formalities you might have planned and of course people dancing and having a good time. It's your wedding day, we want to be there to cover it.

 A second photographer will capture images of the 2nd party getting ready as well as special details. This photographer will also photograph your ceremony, details at your reception as well as family and friends arriving for cocktail hour while I am photographing the formals.

 Every photo session comes with a password protected online gallery, you will be able to order e-surface, metallic, aluminum prints and more to display on your wedding day or for your home.
