Wedding photography in Rome city

Rome is a great location for your wedding and is well connected to the rest of the world with two main airports making it a very popular choice for an Italian destination wedding. Whether it's an elopement or a family affair you will be spoiled by the impressive ruins, buzzing street life and of course the food and wine.

For those who might find it daunting to organise your wedding in Rome, it is really pretty easy, having the right connections and good links and information on venues, the only hard part is organising the paperwork. For catholic weddings the Irish churches are very accommodating and offer helpful assistance with your preparation. For a civil wedding, we can recommend a translator for the paperwork and interpreter for the wedding ceremony.

There are many beautiful churches to choose from if you plan on having a religious ceremony. Also, we have three wedding halls if you decide on a civil ceremony. Campidoglio wedding Hall, also known as the Sala Rossa, Caracalla wedding hall and Villa Lais wedding hall.

For something more intimate and private there are many hotels with rooftop terraces offering panoramic views of the city and villas with private gardens that can accommodate a symbolic ceremony.

Once married, we can find many scenic spots for some incredible backdrops. Think of a glass of prosecco overlooking the Colosseum or we can escape the very busy tourist sites and find a secret garden or cobbled street.

There is something to suit everyone in Rome and with a bit of careful research and planning, you can choose your reception anywhere from a local family run restaurant a luxury hotel with a rooftop terrace or an exclusive Villa. For a smaller group or elopement, there are some fabulous Michelin star restaurants where you can experience stunning views of Rome, and amazing 'Cucina Romana' trattoria where you can sample the very best local Roman cuisine the city has to offer. We LOVE the place!

Siobhan's information for weddings in Rome city

I like to start the story from when you are getting ready. To capture the excitement and preparation before leaving for the church. Some pretty portraits and details of your dress, shoes and flowers. Depending on where you will have your wedding I often leave before the bride to capture the groom and best man waiting at the church.

For the bride who is not keen on the preparations, I am quite happy to make my way to the church and be there for your arrival. It also gives me time to capture the boys and family members before they go in.

I will capture your wedding vows and ring exchange and will keep a discreet and respectable distance between you and your priest. I work quietly and unobtrusively and do not use flash. I don't like to set up groups and families inside the church with all the lovely sunshine in Rome I like to get you all outside where the light is more flattering and we have more relaxed space to work with. Very often with weddings in the centre of Rome I recommend the family groups immediately after the ceremony before people start to wander off.

We can then choose from many of the beautiful sites to have more photos. I will say that many of the more obvious touristy areas like the Trevi Fountain and Spanish steps are so jammed with tourists, it can be difficult to get a nice photo you will also be bombarded with people who want to have their photo with you.

I know of several nicer much quieter locations that can include the Colosseum or other Roman ruins. A secret garden to escape the buzz or if you prefer the rustic neighbourhood of Trastevere with crumbling walls and cobbled streets.

Rome is a wonderful city, it's busy, it's noisy, it's vibrant, it's chaotic at the best of times and its fun. It will capture a place in your heart forever.

“ Lorna and Fergal, Ireland.

We had the most wonderful, special wedding day. An intimate wedding in St. Isidoro's, a tour of Rome in an open top Vintage Fiat 500 and finished off with a rooftop terrace wedding dinner in Savoy Hotel. Our wonderful wedding in Rome! Siobhan was absolutely fantastic!

Turning up a reassuring ten minutes early, effortlessly taking shots, conversations about locals...in Donegal! Helping button up the bride! It was a pleasure. Great communication before the wedding. Thank you, Siobhan and Conor for all your help. I would have no hesitation in recommending you for Wedding photography.
